3 EDITOR'S LETTER

6 AIR CORRESPONDENCE

10 THE POWER OF THREE

James Kightly and Ricardo Reis celebrate the centenary of the first aerial crossing of the South Atlantic in 1922, in which two intrepid Portuguese airmen flew from Lisbon to Rio de Janeiro using a final tally of three Fairey IIIDs

24 "IF ONLY . . ."

In a previously unpublished article, the late Hawker designer Roy Braybrook recalls a memorable trip to West Germany in the early 1960s on NBMR-3 business

34 TO THE SOUTH SEAS AND BEYOND

Edward M. Young chronicles the development of Japan's 1930s air services to the furthest outposts of its Pacific empire, using state-of-the-art long-range flying-boats

44 PIRATES OF THE SOUTH ATLANTIC

On a recent visit to The National Archives, Chris Gibson uncovered an intriguing collection of documents relating to RAF attack plans mooted during the Falklands conflict in 1982 — including the use of maritime-strike Buccaneers

52 WAITING IN THE WINGS

When Denmark was occupied by German forces in 1940, the former's military pilots fled to Sweden to organise an air unit using Swedish equipment, as Leif Hellström relates

60 MR BRANNON'S FANCIFUL FLIERS

Philip Brannon was one of many 19th-Century inventors whose ambition ran ahead of their understanding. Philip Jarrett takes a look at his completely unworkable designs

68 DIRTY WORK

Vic Flintham opens a two-part series on the controversial relationship between the RAF and chemical weapons by examining the Service's use of inter-war "frightfulness"

78 SOUTHERN CHARM

Best known for the Currie Wot and flying film replicas, Viv Bellamy also ran an extensive fleet of de Havilland Dragon Rapides during 1948–78, as recounted by Peter J. Marson

88 THE MISSING LINK?

Why didn't the RAF switch from rifle-calibre to medium-calibre armament in the late 1930s? Matthew Willis discovers another important part of the puzzle

96 FROM WEST LONDON TO SOUTH AMERICA

Ricardo M. Lezon profiles the unusual career — Nazi sub-hunter? — of the sole GAL Cygnet to go to Argentina

100 THE KNIFE'S EDGE

Professor Keith Hayward FRAeS continues his three-part series on the political and industrial fallout of the D.H.106 Comet programme; this time — bailing de Havilland out

110 EYES OF THE LUFTWAFFE

The first half of a two-part article on the flying career of Luftwaffe long-range reconnaissance pilot Karl Friedrich Bergen, by Robert Forsyth and Andreas Dillmann

120 ARMCHAIR AVIATION

125 LOST & FOUND

126 WOULD THE REAL HR204 PLEASE STAND UP?

Mosquito specialists Ian Thirsk and Mike Packham investigate a spot of "double trouble" with an FB.VI serial
